HIGHLIGHTS IN JAZZ: Pace Downtown Theater, 3 Spruce St. (between Park Row and Gold Street), (212) 346-1713. It's a "Houseparty Celebrating Highlights' New Home," with tenor saxist Flip Phillips (the former Woody Herman star — still a joy to hear — who doesn't get up to the Big Apple from his Florida home too often), bluesy, boisterous, singer Dakota Staton ("No Man is Gonna Change Me"), guitarist Howard Alden, pianist John Bunch, bassist Jack Lesberg and drummer Oliver Jackson. Thursday.

Jazz Highlights Series Opens on Thursday

Highlights in Jazz, a monthly series of concerts, will be presented at the Pace Downtown Theater, 3 Spruce St., beginning Thursday at 8 P.M. Past concerts in the 20-year-old series had been held in the Loeb Student Center at New York University.

At Thursday's concert Howard Alden, John Bunch, Jack Lesberg, Oliver Jackson, Flip Phillips and Dakota Staton are to appear. Future concerts are to feature Louis Bellson and His Big Band (Nov. 8); Jon Faddis, Lew Soloff and Barbara Carroll (Dec. 6), and Jay McShann, Doc Cheatham, Kenny Davern, Frank Tate and Jackie Williams (Jan. 10).

Tickets are $8.50 and $12. Information: 346-1715.

Jazz series picks up the pace

AFTER 16 years at NYU, New York's longest-running jazz concert series, "Jackie McShann's Highlights in Jazz," moves Thursday to Pace University's Pace Downtown Theater, 3 Spruce St.

The series, which began at the off-Broadway Playhouse de Lys in 1973, focuses on swing and bebop styles presented primarily in a loose, jam session format.

Tomorrow's opener, "Houseparty," brings together saxophonist Flip Phillips, singer Dakota Staton, guitarist Howard Alden and others, with the Louie Bellson Big Band (Nov. 8); trumpeter Jon Faddis and Lew Soloff (Dec. 6), "Keepers of the Flame," with Jay McShann, Doc Cheatham, Kenny Davern and others (Jan. 10) rounding out the first half of the schedule.

Tickets: $12 ($8.50, students). Information: (212) 347-1715. — Lee Jeske
