SPRING FESTIVAL SOON

Now that Earth Day has opened the way to the wonders of nature and the ways of life---UNF feels a SPRING CELEBRATION is in order--and as every good student of legends and mythology knows, the "RITES OF SPRING" are many and varied. The echoes of the bird-calls will be unmatched if all students, faculty and staff will answer this CALL:

Each event winner will receive points toward the accumulative award. Most points wins. RIGHT?? RIGHT!!!

An additional feature to capture the riotous mood of unbounding joy in the promises of Spring and Summer will be a BAND at the Boat House with the possibility of FREE REFRESHMENTS.

SPECIAL ATTENTION: Additional Special awards will create an air of dignity. Awards possibly for Leadership to a Club or Organization: An award for service to UNF to an outstanding student: Service awards to students of the separate colleges and departments will also be presented.

It is rumored that the Sawmill Slough Conservation Club has been boldly declaring that they will take all awards. Remember, they do have an "inside" with Mother Nature. From the caverns of Student Affairs, I heard that Staff and Faculty are forming their team early and they challenge ALL. They feel their solidarity will surpass any other department.

Now you have the WHAT WHEN WHERE and HOW of it all you need is the TO BE to make it the FIRST ANNUAL SPRING FESTIVAL. Might even beat the 200 hikers who walked the Earth Day trail.

Y'ALL COME...HEAR?

Did YOU Know

It has been brought to my attention that many students are unfamiliar with the degree they will receive from this University. Several students feel that they will attain a BS Bachelor of Science degree, when in fact this University does not offer a BS degree.

The degrees from this University are as follows: BBA.- Bachelor Business Administration, BA -- Bachelor Arts, MBA -- Masters of Education, and BAE -- Bachelor of Arts in Education.

Some students have mentioned to me that they bought rings with a BS degree on them. Herff Jones Ring Company has agreed to fix the rings marked BS at no cost to the student. If you have purchased a ring with a BS degree and want it changed, bring your ring by the UNF Campus Bookstore, and they will return the ring for you.

Club News

PROPELLER CLUB:

Members wishing to attend the 22nd Annual Convention of the Southeastern Region to be held May 9, 10, and 11 at Fort Lauderdale Beach, Florida need to see Jerry Nelson as soon as possible. Representation by the Student Port will provide the opportunity for the University of North Florida to be recognized by a National Organization. The Convention has agreed to formally recognize the Student Port of UNF by giving them a 20 minute time block on the program to present our students, their activities, and the University's involvement in education in Florida.

This is an excellent opportunity for our students to become acquainted with business leaders from all industrial groups and allow many people to become acquainted with the University of North Florida through the representatives of the Student Port sent to the convention.

Propeller Club members are also reminded to turn in their applications to the secretary of the Transportation and Logistics Department.

SAWMILL SLOUGH:

Earth Day was a success, even though the "WHAT'S HAPPENING" didn't make it out in time to let the student body know about it. Over 200 interested people came to see the woods and the snakes and Puddin' with her wild flowers. The Mayor walked over Big Al's bridges and everyone strolled through areas that the "Slough" cleaned up....Nature at her best, considering.

Would you believe that on this campus there are people who cannot read and STILL think that paper trash is made of aluminum...but thank-you to the overwhelming majority who help to recycle cans right.

Next on the Slough's list of activities are more garbage pickups around town, and mass production of birdhouses. As usual, we ask for self-sacrifice and offer nothing in return but good company and a thank-you for your help.

A great big kiss goes out to the administration and Physical Facilities AND the campus cops for their aid in getting EARTH DAY on its feet.

INTRAMURALS:

If you are interested in golf or have been thinking about getting into the sport, Intramurals has some information for you. The following golf courses are available for use by UNF students, staff, and faculty with a UNF intramural and Id card: Hyde Park Golf Club, and Par 3 Golf Course and Driving Range. Students, staff, and faculty will receive reduced rates at these golf courses.

Other private courses offer reduced prices for members of the UNF Extramural Golf Club members with UNF intramural and Id cards. Those are Thousand Oaks, Willow Lakes, and The Dunes Country Club.

These golf courses set the standards for prices and times the courses are available. If you are interested in any of the above discounts, check for a list of available golf courses in the Intramurals Office, or contact Bob Underwood for further information.

Language of Space at UNF

Students and faculty at UNF were recently given the opportunity to discover the "Language of Space". Prof John W. Weilgart, creator of the Language, appeared on campus April 16 to deliver an informal lecture on its symbols and meaning for mankind, present and future.

Professor Weilgart, who holds doctoral degrees in philosophy and psychology from the University of Vienna and Heildelberg, considers his language of symbols a universal means of communication without the restrictive qualities of present day language.

The language, itself, is based on the simplest essence of human communications....symbols. In this respect, the language of space (AUI) is actually "a rediscovery of the basic categories of human thought and expression". Its symbols, like a simple drawing of the heart to represent feeling, deal with the basic categories of meaning expressed through simple "aural and visual" characters. These characters combine by way of "simple, intuitive logic" to create a "definitive" language.

The simplicity of the language eliminates both ambiguity and misunderstanding. The communicator is forced by the nature of the language to state exactly what he means.

Weilgart's "Language of Space" is a fascinating new development in man's continuing efforts to understand his fellow man. The "cosmic" nature of its symbols extends its relevance beyond the bounds of continents and space.

Up From the Gutter

BY: Tom Page III

Earth Day has come and gone. The aluminum recycling is in operation. Mid-terms are around the corner. We still have smog, pollution, encounter groups, God, and term papers. So what's new again? The 18 year olds are up for rights again and space language is here to stay, maybe. Garbage piles up along-side the stack of bills we need to pay and we aren't sure which needs to be thrown out the most. Both stink if left sitting long enough. And then along came the summer.....

That's what's new.....Summer. Loftins birdwatchers can be found at the beach--looking at chicks. The administration is on the golf course (off campus). Too many students are in between on the highway. My cycle is in the shop. Suntan lotion is up 3 points on the stock exchange. Summer colds are turning noses runny--red. Students ponder what jobs to apply for..They need one that gives them the day off to spend at the beach, and weekends off, to date and spend at the beach, and weekday nights off to recuperate from the day at the beach. Yet it must pay enough too. Yea, summer's almost here. My palms and bare feet itch. My wallet is almost empty and I don't give a damn (almost). Just give me another bottle of wine, and good company, and good grades, but don't make me work for it. After all, summer is almost here.

Eco Encounter Success

More than 200 hikers made the tour of North Florida's 300 acre environmental preserve on Sunday, April 15. The hike was sponsored by the Sawmill Slough Conservation Club and the members played a major part in making the walk a success.

Members made the walk early Sunday morning to set up rest-stops and to select points of interest. Dr. Loftin (legs) led the members in describing the areas by "burning the scientific and common names of plants and trees into the memories". They also staked out animal tracks and erected signs indicating the trail for the afternoon strollers.

Areas of interest included were the flowers and trees as well as various habitats of resident animals. Also of interest was the canoe ride on Serenity Lake. Walkers were assisted by members of the club.

A snake exhibit provided by Florida Park Service Ranger, Tom Pellicer, of Goldhead State Park, provided a special addition to the walk.

The 2½ mile walk was led by Mayor Hans Tanzler and his wife and UNF President Tom Carpenter. The bulk of walkers were residents of Jacksonville, all ages were represented. The student turn-out was very small.

The trails on campus are maintained year-round for the enjoyment of the students and Jacksonville residents; they provide a peaceful atmosphere for those people who need to get away from the noise and stress of day-to-day crowded conditions.

The University of North Florida Eco trails provide an excellent place to bird-watch, botanize, meditate, or just walk. They let you get back to nature, you'll probably find it most rewarding.

The Sawmill Slough Conservation Club would like to take this opportunity to express its appreciation to Physical Facilities Department and the Physical Education Department for their cooperation in making the walk a success.
