LIBRARY NOTES

Andrew Farkas, director of the library, is concerned over the disappearance of several periodicals from the current periodical shelves.

Anyone wishing to check out periodicals should see John Hein before removing any from the shelves. As Mr. Farkas says, "We don't even have any students to blame it on yet."

Department secretaries may pick up the new carboned book request forms from the library, but only if they are sure they will be using the carbon for their own files. The expense of the new forms makes it imperative that they not be wasted.

TIRE KICKERS
TAKE NOTE

Hilton Meadows, director of physical facilities, and Jack Winstead, director of purchasing, would be the envy of the average American car buyer. They returned from the federal government's surplus property auction with more than $10,000 worth of vehicles and spare parts and paid a paltry $982.

The half ton van in the parking lot cost $440; two of the three wheeled scooters were $80 and the third was $75. A batch of spare parts were purchased for $307.

Mr. Meadows will use the vehicles for mail, maintenance, utility services and receiving.
