V11111

NEGRO LEAGUES BASEBALL NEGRO LEAGUES BASEBALL

NEGRO LEAGUES BASEBALL NEGRO LEAGUES BASEBALL

NEGRO LEAGUES BASEBALL NEGRO LEAGUES BASEBALL

NEGRO LEAGUES BASEBALL NEGRO LEAGUES BASEBALL

NEGRO LEAGUES BASEBALL NEGRO LEAGUES BASEBALL

NEGRO LEAGUES BASEBALL NEGRO LEAGUES BASEBALL

NEGRO LEAGUES BASEBALL NEGRO LEAGUES BASEBALL

NEGRO LEAGUES BASEBALL NEGRO LEAGUES BASEBALL

NEGRO LEAGUES BASEBALL NEGRO LEAGUES BASEBALL

NEGRO LEAGUES BASEBALL NEGRO LEAGUES BASEBALL

.44

x 20

$8.80

The Negro leagues operated across the country from 1920 to about 1960. Drawing some of the most remarkable athletes ever to play baseball, the leagues galvanized African-American communities, challenged prevailing racist notions of athletic superiority, and ultimately sparked the integration of American sports

The Negro leagues operated across the country from 1920 to about 1960. Drawing some of the most remarkable athletes ever to play baseball, the leagues galvanized African-American communities, challenged prevailing racist notions of athletic superiority, and ultimately sparked the integration of American sports.

The Negro leagues operated across the country from 1920 to about 1960. Drawing one of the most remarkable athletes ever o play baseball, the leagues galvanized Arrican-American communities, challenged prevailing racist notions of athletic superiority, and ultimately sparked the unegration of American sports.

The Negro leagues operated across the country from 1920 to about 1960. Drawing some of the most remarkable athletes ever to play baseball, the leagues galvanized African-American communities, challenged prevailing racist notions of athletic superiority, and ultimately sparked the integration of American sports.

The Negro leagues operated across the country from 1920 to about 1960. Drawing some of the most remarkable athletes ever to play baseball, the leagues galvanized African-American communities, challenged prevailing racist notions of athletic superiority, and ultimately sparked the integration of American sports.

Considered the "father" of Negro leagues baseball, Andrew "Rube" Foster (1879-1930) established the Negro National League in 1920, the first successful league of African-American baseball teams. He served as president of the league until 1926 and established its slogan. "We are the ship, all else the sea."

Considered the "father" of Negro leagues baseball. Andrew "Rube" Foster (1879-1930) established the Negro National League in 1920, the first successful league of African-American baseball teams. He served as president of the league until 1926 and established its slogan, "We are the ship, all else the sea."

Considered the "father" of Negro leagues baseball, Andrew "Rube" Foster (1879-1930) established the Negro National League in 1920, the first successful league of African-American baseball teams. He served as president of the league until 1926 and established its slogan. "We are the ship, all else the sea."

Considered the "father" of Negro leagues baseball. Andrew "Rube" Foster (1879–1930) established the Negro National League in 1920, the first successful Yeague of African-American baseball teams. He served as president of the league until 1926 and established its slogan, "We are the ship, all eige the sea."

Considered the "father" of Negro leagues baseball, Andrew "Rube" Foster (1879-1330) established the Negro National League in 1920, the first successful league of African-American baseball teams. He served as president of the league until 1926 and established its slogan. "We are the ship, all else the sea."

The Negro leagues operated across the country from 1920 to about 1960. Drawing some of the most remarkable athletes ever to play baseball, the leagues galvanized African-American communities, challenged prevailing racist notions of athletic superiority, and ultimately sparked the integration of American sports.

The Negro leagues operated across the country from 1920 to about 1960. Drawing some of the most remarkable athletes ever to play baseball, the leagues galvanized African-American communities, challenged prevailing racist notions of athletic superiority, and ultimately sparked the integration of American sports.

The Negro leagues operated across the country from 1920 to about 1960. Drawing some of the most remarkable athletes ever to play basebail, the leagues galvanized African-American communities, challenged prevailing racist notions of athletic superiority, and ultimately sparked the integration of American sports.

The Negro leagues operated across the country from 1920 to about 1960. Drawing some of the most remarkable athletes ever to play basebail, the leagues galvanized African-American communities, challenged prevailing racist notions of athletic superiority, and ultimately sparked the integration of American sports.

The Negro leagues operated across the country from 1920 to about 1960. Drawing some of the most remarkable athletes ever to play baseball, the leagues galvanized African-American communities, challenged prevailing racist notions of athletic superiority, and ultimately sparked the integration of American sports.

Considered the "father" of Negro leagues baseball. Andrew "Rube" Foster (1879-1930) established the Negro National League in 1920, the first successful league of African-American baseball teams. He served as president of the league until 1926 and established its slogan, "We are the ship, all else the sea."

Considered the "father" of Negro leagues baseball, Andrew "Rube" Foster (1879-1930) established the Negro National League in 1920, the first successful league of African-American baseball teams. He served as president of the league until 1926 and established its slogan, "We are the ship, all else the sea."

Considered the "father" of Negro leagues baseball, Andrew "Rube" Foster (1879-1930) established the Negro National League in 1920, the first successful league of African-American baseball teams. He served as president of the league until 1926 and established its slogan, "We are the ship, all else the sea."

Considered the "father" of Negro leagues baseball, Andrew "Rube" Foster (1879-1930) established the Negro National League in 1920, the first successful league of African-American baseball teams. He served as president of the league until 1926 and established its slogan, "We are the ship, all else the sea."

Considered the "father" of Negro leagues

baseball, Andrew "Rube" Foster

(1879-1930) established the Negro National League in 1920, the first successful league of African-American baseball teams. He served as president of the league until 1926 and established its slogan, "We are the ship, all else the sea."

465200

© 2009

USPS

