TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:

I am writing this little note to introduce my young friend, Mr. J. W. Dunkerley, a citizen of Jacksonville.

I have known this young man since babyhood and have known his very charming mother since she was a young girl and I, therefore, can absolutely vouch for his integrity and his willingness and eagerness to make good in any position which may be offered him.

Mr. Dunkerley has had a varied experience, both in clerical work and as a salesman, and I am informed by the people for whom he has worked that he has always been courteous, efficient, and honorable in all his dealings.

Having this very personal interest in Mr. Dunkerley, I sincerely hope that some of our citizens who may chance to read this letter will be able to find some sort of work for this young man, for I am sure if he should become associated with any of our citizens it will work out to their mutual benefit.

Any courtesies shown Mr. Dunkerley will be greatly appreciated by him, his mother, and the undersigned.

Sincerely yours,

MAYOR.
