Rx for the blues: Jazz Highlights once a month

TERRY TUNES: Clark Terry will handle the trumpet.

COME BLOW A HORN — or at least hear one blown for the 18th anniversary of the monthly "Highlights in Jazz" series tomorrow at 8 p.m. at the Pace (College) Downtown Theater, 3 Spruce St. That's between Park Row and Gold St.

Clark Terry will be playing trumpet and flugelhorn with pianist Roger Kellaway, PREVIEW bassist Jay Leonhart and his 16-year-old trumpeter son, Mike, and guitarists Gene Bertoncini and Bucky Pizzarelli.

Bertoncini and Pizzarelli were in the very first "Highlights" concert, back on Feb. 5, 1973, at what is now the Lucille Lortel Theater. A young guy named Jack Kleinsinger, who was then (and still is) an assistant attorney general of the State of New York, got together some of the jazzmen he liked and hired the theater. Besides the two guitarists, Kleinsinger was able to offer his audience Zoot Sims, Al Cohn, Joe Newman and Phil Bodner.

"I knew it would last more than one time," he said yesterday. "I rented the theater for two concerts."

But the first review he got was terrible.

"I was very disheartened," he recalled, "and thought of canceling the second concert."

The next notices he got, however, were favorable. Bucked up, he pressed on. He eventually moved the concerts to New York University's Loeb Student Auditorium, then brought them to Pace College a couple of years ago. He still doubles as producer and master of ceremonies.

One memorable aspect of the concerts has been Kleinsinger's annual salutes to living jazzmen.

"Everybody," he says, "is very quick to honor jazz musicians when they pass on. I feel it's better to let them know how good they are while they're still alive and playing."

This year's honoree is trombonist Slide Hampton; his night falls on April 11.

Tickets for tomorrow's concert, which will feature two surprise guests, are $12 ($8.50 for students). For further details, phone (212) 346-1715.

PLUCKY: Jay Leonhart will play bass.

Oscar Pettiford and leading his own group for three years at the Five Spot on Cooper Square, he has more recently been involved primarily with folk music and composition. His appearance on Sunday at the Fortune Garden as part of a fund-raising event for the Highlights in Jazz series, which will also be a tribute to the Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., is one of his rare recent appearances in a jazz setting. He will share the program with a trio led by the pianist and singer Freddy Cole, a brother of Nat (King) Cole. There will be two shows, at 6 and 8:30 P.M., with a minimum of $20. A $10 donation is requested for the Highlights in Jazz fund-raising.
