

JACK KLEINSINGER
presents

Highlights In JAZZ

New York's Longest Running Jazz Concert Series

Two Great JAZZ Celebrations

Thursday, February 14, 2008 - 8 pm

*Highlights In Jazz
35th Anniversary*

Jane Monheit

Danny Mixon Trio

Thursday, March 13, 2008 - 8 pm

Salute to Freddy Cole

Freddy Cole Quartet

David "Fathead" Newman
Cynthia Scott
John di Martino
Houston Person
Ray Drummond
Lew Soloff
Joe Farnsworth

— Specify February 14th or March 13th Concert When Ordering —

Tickets: $30.00 / Students $27.50

Make checks payable to: Highlights in Jazz

Tickets at box office or by mail order to:

Highlights in Jazz, 7 Peter Cooper Road
New York, NY 10010

— Enclose a self-addressed stamped envelope —

This event is made possible with public funds from the NYS Council on the Arts, a State agency

Concerts produced in association with:

BMCC TRIBECA
Performing Arts Center

Borough of Manhattan
Community College
199 Chambers St.

(212) 220-1460

February 8, 2008

Jazz Listings

By THE NEW YORK TIMES

JANE MONHEIT (Thursday) Ms. Monheit's crystalline voice, like the arc of her career, more readily suggests a cabaret star than a serious jazz singer. But she has the skills and the instinct to hold her own, even when — as on her latest album, "Surrender" (Concord) — her repertory does her no favors. For this Valentine's Day concert, part of the Highlights in Jazz series, she shares a bill with the pianist Danny Mixon. At 8 p.m., TriBeCa Performing Arts Center, 199 Chambers Street, near Greenwich Street, (212) 220-1460, tribecapac.org; $25, students $15. (Chinen)

THE NEW YORKER

NEWYORKER.COM

Goings On About Town

Night Life

February 11, 2008

JAZZ AND STANDARDS

"HIGHLIGHTS IN JAZZ"

Feb. 14: The singer Jane Monheit may have been a victim of too much hype and its ensuing deflation, but don't write her off yet. She continues to evolve as an interpretive artist, and for now is sticking to jazz and standards, rather than pop or current Broadway pap, for the bulk of her repertoire. (Tribeca Performing Arts Center, 199 Chambers St. 212-220-1460.)

TO "JACK" Thanks for everything
Warren Nixon

"2008"