

*Welcome to the 1992
Democratic National Convention*

Welcome to New York City — the world's greatest marketplace for goods, services, ideas and opportunities. Our communications, financial, legal and other business services — along with the cultural, educational and research institutions — are unmatched in the world. A huge market with a skilled workforce, New York City provides ready access to the major markets of the nation and abroad. This dynamic city requires world-class energy systems. Con Edison is proud to have been a part of The Energy of New York for more than 100 years.

During your stay, we hope you'll visit many of the area's exciting tourist attractions — including our Conservation Center in the Chrysler Building at 42nd Street and Lexington Avenue in Manhattan.

Con Edison has been a world leader among utilities in promoting conservation for more than 20 years. At the Center, you can see how energy-saving ideas are working to improve the environment and reduce costs to our customers. At this time of year, the Center is open Mondays through Fridays from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. It is open — especially for you — from noon to 5 p.m. on Sunday, July 12. Admission is free.
