Dear Susan:

We are enclosing our client pictures and letters as you requested for your holiday presents. You will notice that one of the pictures shows a SENIORS FIRST site supervisor, who is a senior herself on a very limited income and has struggled with the cost of her medications. Maribel helped her under the Blue Foundation program while assisting other clients at her site. Since it was convenient while photographing the client, we decided to include Mary as a backup. You should feel free to include her in the project or not, as you feel is appropriate.

Maribel had contacted another client and his daughter, the caregiver, who expressed an interest in assisting her father with participating in this holiday project. Maribel followed up with numerous messages but never heard back from the daughter. We suddenly realized that the deadline was upon us after the Thanksgiving holiday.

We hope that this will be helpful to you. We don't know what type of letters you expected. Most of our clients are very limited in their capabilities to respond to such requests.

We are moving along in our attempts to organize our internships for next semester. We definitely have a social work intern lined up and are negotiating with a nursing student to determine if the placement will meet her timeframe and guidelines.

We send our best wishes for a wonderful holiday season with family and friends.

Sincerely,

Cathy Edwards
