Dear Bill,

The chairmen of the College of Arts and Sciences and I wish to congratulate you and your students on the excellent first copy of "The Halyard".

Anyone who has ever been associated with a student publication knows and appreciates the effort, planning and agony that goes into such an undertaking--especially when it is done with very limited facilities and resources.

You have set a high standard to follow but we know that you, your students, and others who contributed to this publication are equal to the task. Again, Congratulations!

Sincerely,
