New York: Gerry Mulligan, who hasn't fronted his own group for a number of years, brought his quartet into the Halfnote May 14-19, following Stan Getz and the Monte Alexander Trio May 6-11. Appearing opposite Mulligan is the Zoot Sims Quartet: Another reluctant leader, Paul Desmond, comes in with his quartet May 21 for two weeks, sharing the stage with Bill Evans. The Dizzy Gillespie Quintet and the Junior Mance Trio wind up April 28. Trumpeter, trombonist, and sometimes suprano saxist Gene Roland uncorked a tenor when he sat in with Roy Eldridge at Ryans March 26. Joining in on vocaleeA the same night were Judy Canterino and the Apollo's Haney Coles. That same evening, Coles, better known as a dancer, demonstrated he has lost none of his style when he cut some smooth stepping at the opening of Bobby Hackett and Vic Dickenson at the Americana's Royal Box. On hand to welcome the sextet were, among others, Artie Shaw, John Hammond, Lee Konitz and Peter Dean. The band was in excellent shape, but the piano wasn't. No cover, no minimum, and dancing — a bit close to the musicians for their comfort. The group, set for one month, may be held over. Pianist George Cori's intermission trio had Dannie budgets on drums. The fourths of Jack Kleinsinger's Monday sessions at the Theatre Del's is set for May 14 with Clark Terry, Frank Wess, Chris White, Jim Hall, Sonny Stitt, and dancer Baby Laurence. It will be taped for今后 show on Cable TV. Jimmy Ramey was at the Top of the Gate March 30-31 appearing opposite the Sonny Stitt Trio. Art D'lugoff smartly hired Booker as soon as he heard the guitarist was in from Louisville. The Ahmad Jamal Trio is there through April 29. McCorky was at the Village Vanguard April 10. Rahsaan Roland Kirk is scheduled for May 1. Freddie Hubbard for the 15th Charles Mingus' April 24 week was cancelled. Guitarist Joe Beck and Herb Bushler were at Bradley's on March 31.

'Highlights in Jazz' Lives

Jack Kleinsinger's continuing "Highlights in Jazz" series at the Theatre De Lys for the last time the other night, filling the air with good vibrations that got better when the young impresario announced that the Jam sessions will move to a new theater — the Astor Place — next month and go on a new two-show-a-night schedule. The latest "Highlights" had many highlights, almost from the opening moment when Clark Terry, Frank Wess, Chris White, Oliver Jackson and Gene Bertoncini swung into "Walking," picked up "My Gal" (an original by Terry, who gave it a humorous vocal approach) and put it all together with "On the Trail" from "Grand Canyon Suite" as "mystery guests." Buddy Tate joined the set.

Terry played trumpet and flugelhorn, Wess doubled on sax and flute, White walked the bass. Jackson pounded the drums and then made them talk softly. Bertoncini created some cool sounds from the electric guitar and Tate swung mightily.

They all jammed along with "Last Stop In," and Terry, Wess and Tate gave way to each other's soaring solos, and then jumped with a moving "Summer of '42," built around Wess' soulful flute.
