SPECIAL EVENTS

"Jazz Guitar Glory" is the name of the show tonight at 8 at the NYU Loeb Student Center, and the guitars belong to Barney Kessel and Herb Ellis. To fans of jazz guitar, no further description should be necessary. Even the "backup" is a star: Tiny Grimes and his trio.

The student center is at 566 LaGuardia Place. For information, call 598-3757.

The Dyansen Gallery of SoHo, 122 Spring St., will host a champagne reception benefit tonight for the Eglevsky Ballet, which in return will perform there for the guests.

Artist Francois Cloutier’s exhibition, "Dancers in Reflection," will serve as backdrop, with the paintings then sold and part of the money also donated to the ballet company.

The reception begins at 6 p.m. For information, call 226-3384.

The Tubes, those lovable rock satirists, will perform tonight at the New York Institute of Technology in Old Westbury.

Tim Miller’s new multi-dimensional show, "Cost of Living," opens tonight at the Kitchen, 484 Broome St. Call 925-3615.
